CORAM : A.M.KHANWILKAR, J.

14th March 2005

P.C.:

. Both these petitions can be disposed of by Common Order. It is reported that the parties have amicably settled all the disputes and consent terms duly signed by them have already been made part of the record before the lower Court. In this backdrop, request is made that both these petitions be disposed of in view of the said settlement arrived at between the parties, as nothing survives for consideration in these petitions. Affidavit of the wife mentioning the fact that she is not interested in pursuing the matters further in view of this settlement tendered. Taken on record.

. Accordingly, both these petitions are disposed of.
